

Terabyte Terrorists Basic Guide to the Gang

Overview

This is the Terabyte Terrorists guide to being successful in the gang. This guide will explain the rules, as well as what to do in certain situations. If you follow all of these rules you will most likely be accepted in the gang, and most likely prosper in it as well.

Ranks

The ranks to this gang are very simple and very easy to remember. It is a simple earn it get it kind of system, which means that if the higher ranks think you deserve to be promoted, you will receive it. If you ask to get promoted, the chances of you getting promoted will decrease and your chances of getting demoted will increase. It makes the higher ranking officers annoyed and you will most likely have a bad time if you ask. Ranks are in the table below, as well as the order.

1. Leader (Captain)
2. Co-Leader (Lieutenant)
3. Officer (Sergeant)
4. Veteran (Corporal)
5. Member (Constable)
6. Initiate (Cadet)

It is pretty self-explanatory, the higher numbers are the higher ranks, Leader being the highest. You must follow the orders of the highest person on, and if they put someone in charge, whatever the rank, you must listen to them. If we catch word of you not listening to a higher officer, you will most likely be kicked out or demoted, depending on the rank.

Communications

The number one thing we have in this gang is respect, and if you don't show it you don't deserve to be in the gang. If you are disrespectful towards any of the other members of the gang, as well as other players in general, punishment will be issued.

For other communications, a lot of things are included. TeamSpeak, profile name, in-game, and a lot of other things. If you fail to obey any of these rules it could result in a demotion or a blacklist, so I recommend you read this.

TeamSpeak

For TeamSpeak you are going to have to do one thing. They will be listed down below, make sure you do all of that or you might result punishment or abusive yelling.

- Add the [TBT] tag to your name, put it before you name like it is with a space between the tag and you name.

There are basic things to know about being in the channel, you must listen to the higher officers when they give you an order. Basic commands you must know are below, if you don't know them you won't be very efficient in the gang.

- Clear Comms – Everyone must become quiet.
- Position Name? – You are required to give your position.

- Follow Me – Follow the person who said that.
- Clear Agendas – Forget/finish everything you are doing and do what the person is telling you to do.
- Role Call – Everyone will go silent and the highest officer will go through who is in-game. If you are not in-game you must leave the channel and go to the AFK room.

Make sure you know all of these, not listening to one of these when they are said could screw up the mission and you might get punished for it.

In-Game

We have a uniform system here in TBT, and you are required to use it. If you are a higher rank than initiate, you may use the initiate uniform, this applies to every rank, so a leader could use a member uniform and so forth. The uniforms can be found in the image to the left, which are labeled by the ranks.

We play on Server #1. If you see someone with our tag on another server it is not us, so do not be fooled. If we see you on another server we will not do anything, but you need to go to the AFK room in the channel.

You don't need to know anything else in-game because you are required to be in TeamSpeak whenever you are playing with the gang. The only thing you need to do in-game is add the tag before your name like you did with TeamSpeak.

Roleplay

Roleplay is one of the most important things about this gang. When we roleplay we do it correctly, that means that you must understand how to do so. If you need help with learning how to roleplay or properly play Altis Life, feel free to ask. Our gang does its best to ensure that the rules are followed when you are with us or without us.

That being said, if you are caught breaking the rules on roleplay on Olympus Entertainment or other Altis Life servers, you risk demotion or even a blacklist from the gang. If it is bad enough, we will be forced to also report you to the server administration, but that is only if it is truly necessary.

Combat

For combat all you need to do is listen to the higher officer and understand the callouts above. If we find out that you have been RDMing or VDMing, we will personally blacklist you and report you. We have a 0 tolerance policy for breaking the rules, especially if it has to do with role-play and such.

Never do random events such as hostage situations or hijackings without a higher officers permission, if you want to do it in your free time when you are not playing with us go ahead, but we do not want to gather a bad reputation and become untrustworthy with the community.

Conclusion

That is about it for this guide, please remember that we constantly update this and expect that it is reread at least every week or so to make sure you are up to shape with the rules that we require. If you have any questions please feel free to contact us one of the ways below. If you need to know who the main leaders are, you can find them down below also.

Best Regards,
The Terabyte Terrorists HR.
